INTRODUCTION

Anglican parish registers of baptisms, marriages and burials and the bishops' transcripts of parish registers are two of the most heavily consulted series of original records in the custody and care of the Staffordshire and Stoke on Trent Archive Service. Both sources are invaluable for research into family history. The purpose of this publication is twofold: to indicate which parish registers are available for consultation at the Staffordshire Record Office and to give details of the bishops' transcripts for the Diocese of Lichfield.

The Parochial Registers and Records Measure, 1978, amended 1992, requires parishes to deposit with an approved repository parish records which are over 100 years old, or which were started over 150 years ago, unless the parish itself can provide the storage conditions specified in the Measure. Under the Parochial Registers and Records Measure, the Staffordshire Record Office is the repository approved by the Diocese of Lichfield for the deposit of Anglican parish registers from the Archdeaconries of Stoke on Trent, Lichfield and Walsall. These ecclesiastical administrative areas encompass the geographical area of the former historic county of Staffordshire. Registers for Anglican parish churches which are now in the county of the West Midlands or in the City of Stoke on Trent can therefore be found on deposit at the Staffordshire Record Office, unless stated otherwise.

From 1597 individual parishes were required to return transcripts of parish register entries annually to the diocesan registry. These are now held as part of the diocesan records collection. The transcripts cover the former Diocese of Lichfield, that is Staffordshire, Derbyshire, northern Shropshire and north-eastern Warwickshire, and the peculiar jurisdictions within the Diocese, that is, those parishes exempt from the jurisdiction of the bishop. With the exception of a few parishes, the earliest transcripts survive only from the 1660s, traditionally thought to be as a result of loss during the Civil War and the Commonwealth period. There is no uniform cut-off date for the transcripts of baptisms and burials and these can cease at any time between the 1830s and 1880s. Marriages are normally omitted after 1837. Any gaps in coverage are noted in the Gateway to the Past online catalogue.

THE ADMINISTRATIVE STRUCTURE OF ANGLICAN PARISHES IN STAFFORDSHIRE

The administrative structure of Anglican parishes is fairly complex. The ancient parishes of Staffordshire are those which were listed in the returns of "the state and regiment of the Diocese of Coventry and Lichfield", returned in 1563, of which there were 143 in the county. Generally, the majority of these parishes were in place from the beginning of the 13th century. However, there were some changes after the dissolution of the monasteries when former monastic churches, such as Burton on Trent, became parish churches with a definite district assigned to them. Other monastic churches were destroyed, and their former districts assigned to another parish church.

Some ancient parishes in Staffordshire, such as Leek, Wolstanton and Wolverhampton, St. Peter, were geographically very large and, for the convenience of those people who lived at some distance from the parish church, chapels were built to serve a clearly defined area. Many of these chapelries were licensed initially only to perform baptisms and burials, with the right to perform marriages being reserved to the mother church. The chapelries which are listed in this guide include a number also listed in the 1563 returns. Chapels of ease were also built in some large parishes and were attached to the main parish church. In general terms these had no distinct geographical area assigned to them. In Staffordshire many chapels of ease were formerly mediaeval chantry chapels.

A map of the ancient parishes in Staffordshire is available from any of the Archive Service access points. Please ask for current price and postage.

Extra parochial places, or liberties as they were sometimes known, were areas that were not considered to be part of any parish, usually because their population was so sparse.

During the 19th century, particularly after 1829, a large number of additional churches were built, and new ecclesiastical districts or parishes created to serve the rapidly increasing population in urban areas such as the Potteries and the Black Country in Staffordshire. These new districts were formed by taking parts out of one of more other parishes in the vicinity. In addition, some existing chapelries became licensed to perform marriages. A further development in the late 19th or early 20th centuries in heavily populated parishes was the building of small mission churches attached to a particular church. Such churches were usually only licensed for baptisms. During the 20th century further new ecclesiastical districts have been created and new churches built, usually in areas of new housing development. This publication attempts to include such parishes in the archdeaconries of Stoke on Trent, Lichfield and Walsall.

In 2021 the implementation of the Civil Partnerships, Marriages and Deaths (Registration) Act 2019 brought about the closure of all current marriage registers and the introduction of electronic certificates. Generally, the churches still retain recent registers for reference, but some churches have chosen to deposit all marriage registers up to 2021. Official copy certificates can only be supplied by the Registration Service under the new Act.

ARRANGEMENT OF THE GUIDE

The first part of the guide lists Staffordshire parishes alphabetically with the place name and the dedication of the church. Under each entry, there is a brief note including its “status” and, where relevant, the date when it became a parish, the parish or parishes from which it was formed, and the parish upon which it was dependant, in the case of a chapelry, district or mission church. This information should be used to help the user to identify which other parishes to search prior to the first recorded date of the register entries. The ancient parishes are indicated in capital letters, and chapelries, chapels of ease, modern ecclesiastical districts and extra parochial districts in lower case letters.

This information is followed firstly by the dates for which the registers have been deposited at the Staffordshire Record Office, or for which microform copies only are available; secondly, the dates for which bishops’ transcripts are available; and thirdly, if the registers have been deposited elsewhere or if they remain in the custody of the appropriate incumbent at the parish church itself. It can normally be assumed that the registers of parishes for those years after the most recent dates deposited remain in the custody of the incumbents, and any enquiries concerning these registers should be directed to them.

Where there are no holdings under a particular heading of baptisms, marriages or burials, this is indicated by a line of dashes. This will normally indicate that registers are still held at the church, unless the church has since closed, but it may not always be known whether there are any registers at all, or whether, for instance, the church is not licensed to perform marriages. Where it is known that no burial ground exists, this has been indicated.

Where there are no holdings at all because records are retained at the church, a starting date for these registers has been given where known, but for many more recent churches information is yet to be obtained as to the dates of any registers held at the church.

This guide does not include the holdings of printed, typescript or manuscript transcripts of parish registers which may be available at any of the Staffordshire and Stoke on Trent Archive Service access points or at the William Salt Library, Stafford. Separate lists of these are available.

The second part of the guide is devoted to the bishops' transcripts for parishes in Derbyshire, northern Shropshire and north-eastern Warwickshire. For these parishes the indication of whether a parish is an ancient one or not is based on that given in Guide to the Local Administrative Units of England by F.A. Youngs ( RHS 1991). The ancient parishes are indicated in capital letters, and chapelries, chapels of ease, more modern ecclesiastical districts and extra parochial districts in lower case letters. For details of deposited parish registers for these counties, users are referred to Derbyshire Record Office, County Hall, Matlock DE4 3AG; Shropshire Archives, Castle Gates, Shrewsbury SY1 2AS; and Warwickshire Record Office, Priory Park, Cape Road, Warwick CV34 4JS.

Please be aware that the contents of the Bishops Transcripts for some of the nineteenth century churches have not been confirmed in detail as these had been catalogued only with overall covering dates. The covering dates for types of entry may vary slightly and they may not all have burial grounds. The same may be the case for post-1813 BTs for older churches.

List of abbreviations used in this guide:

BTs:	Bishops' transcripts
EP:	Ecclesiastical parish
MF:	Microfilm or microfiche copy only available at the Staffordshire Record Office
SRO:	Staffordshire Record Office
T:	Transcript
TP:	Township

An asterisk* before the commencement date of bishops' transcripts indicates that there are substantial dates missing in the series up to 1812.

CONSULTING PARISH REGISTERS AND BISHOPS' TRANSCRIPTS

Parish registers of baptisms, marriages, burials and banns of marriage for 1900 and earlier are available on the FindMyPast website, where originals are held by the Staffordshire and Stoke on Trent Archive Service. This is a subscription website, and it can be accessed for free within the service points of Archive Service, and the Staffordshire Library Service. These may be black and white images from digitised microfilms, or scans from original registers.

Most original parish registers deposited at the Staffordshire Record Office also remain available for consultation as microform copies. All registers with a starting date of 1925 or earlier have been microfilmed, and registers of many urban parishes with a starting date of 1950 or earlier have also been microfilmed. This is an essential preservation measure and is in line with the Archive Service's Preservation Policy and its commitment to the long-term preservation of Staffordshire's archival heritage. In addition, where Staffordshire parish registers have been deposited elsewhere, the Record Office may hold microfiche or microfilm copies of these registers for the convenience of users. Please note that recent additions within that date range have not been microfilmed but have been made available online, as above.

All original Bishops' Transcripts are available for consultation at Staffordshire Record Office but require a minimum of two working days advance notice for production. It is intended that they will become available online in due course.

Microfiche copies of registers for parish churches within the City of Stoke on Trent and urban areas of Newcastle, starting 1950 and earlier, and for the northern half of Staffordshire starting 1925 and earlier, are available for consultation at Stoke on Trent City Archives.

Microfiche copies of registers for parish churches, and of bishops' transcripts of Derbyshire parishes, within the township of Burton on Trent are available for consultation at Burton Local & Family History Centre.

Prior booking for Staffordshire Record Office and Stoke on Trent City Archives is essential.

Microform copies of registers for many parishes in the Black Country are also held at the respective archive offices, and there may also be other registers held at these offices for which no copies are available at Staffordshire Record Office because the area falls outside the collecting area for Staffordshire:

Walsall Local History Centre, Essex Street, Walsall WS2 7AS;

Wolverhampton Archives and Local Studies, Molyneux Hotel Building, Whitmore Hill, Wolverhampton WV1 1SF;

Sandwell Community History and Archives Service, Smethwick Library, High Street, Smethwick, Warley B66 1AB;

Dudley Archives and Local History Service, Tipton Road, Dudley DY1 4SQ;

Birmingham Archives, Heritage and Photography Service, Library of Birmingham, Centenary Square, Broad Street, Birmingham B1 2ND.

A number of main libraries in Staffordshire hold microfiche or microfilm copies or transcripts of registers for their immediate areas. Users are advised to check with them prior to a visit. The Staffordshire Library Service also offers free access to the FindMyPast website.
